

Accounting and Risk Management Expertise. When You Need It.

This may be the toughest time in history to be an accountant or auditor. The burden on accounting, finance and internal audit departments has never been greater. Stakeholders demand more accurate and timely information as well as greater transparency. Workloads for CFOs have increased dramatically due to Sarbanes-Oxley and other legislation. Yet, as financial departments face more work, they are forced to make do with fewer people.

You need affordable experts who can work seamlessly with your team and are committed to delivering high-quality results. Whether it's accounting support through a transition period, co-sourcing for an internal audit department, or a full-time controller, AC Lordi provides the assistance you need and is always accountable for the quality of work we deliver.
